We are looking for an expert native iOS & android mobile application developer who also has experience in backend development. You will be working alongside with the Founder and also be involved in planning and implementing the long-term tech architecture of the App. The App is currently in beta stage and needs specific iterations. The App is perfectly poised for scaling rapidly in India within the next 3 to 6 months.

The scope of work includes the following:
• Perform as lead developer for our existing android/ iOS App
• Write clean high-quality codes and implement all new product iterations, features, UI/UX re-design and changes to our existing App and backend server
• Bug-fixes
• Backend server development

We use a solid modern development stack – node.js on the server with a REST Api and native mobile clients.
